APPLE PRESSING AT THE JOHNSON BARN

Photos by Doane Perry

The apple pressing at Don Johnson's barn on Great Barrington Road on Saturday, October 14, was a wonderful treat from the moment we arrived. We talked with friends and admired Don's handsome pieces of restored farm equipment. Families went on tractor-pulled hay wagon rides around the fields. Peter Thorne and Craig Moffatt loaded apples into the apple press while youngsters took turns turning the handle. In the open barn door, under an American flag, the Zydeco Hillbillies performed for the guests pictured here. The hot dogs, sauerkraut, and cider were delicious! And it was all for a good cause: donations were collected to support the Community Health Association.

Open Meeting: September 25, 2017

Police Report

Chief Marc Portieri reported that September has been quiet. The speeding signs are working well, especially with early morning traffic. The Lenox Road sign might be moved to Shaker Mill. Eighty speeding tickets and 25 parking tickets have been issued. One accident occurred on Main Street between a vehicle backing up and a motorcycle. There have been no complaints about the curb at Main Street and Swamp Road. Drug paraphernalia was found on Baker Street. Chief Portieri added that Officer Forest is a top trainee.

Astore Quarry Event

Mark Webber said he wanted to make the selectmen aware of the educational event planned for the Freedley Quarry on October 7 and 8, as announced in the Local Yokel. The quarry is privately owned, but parking to gain access in the past has involved trespassing. Mark plans to let the police chief handle it. Organizer Sissy Gunn Astore has arranged parking at the Sportsmen's Club and shuttle transportation to the quarry.

Route 41 Paving Project Update

Curt Wilton said that the Route 41 repaving project would start September 28 and take 3 to 4 days.

Fire Department Report

Chief Peter Skorput reported that the department is operating well. The ideal roster is 18 persons. Currently 14 people are in the department. Two people recently resigned.

Cable Commission

Peter said that the Cable Commission will be discussed at the next meeting. Town counsel says the commission's documents are fine as submitted but has added two procedural items to the commission's duties.

Maple Hill Road Curb Cut

Curt reported that William Kaiser and Kelly Smedvig Kaiser have asked for a curb cut permit at 44 or 46 Maple Hill Road so they can adjust their driveways around their 4,800-foot frontage.

Marijuana Distribution Ban

David and Maria Carls of West Center Road read from a statement supporting a permanent ban on marijuana distribution proposed by Richard Squailia. They argued that the ban should be on the agenda along with the moratorium because the town's majority vote in the state referendum did not ask if people wanted to have stores in their downtown selling marijuana in all its permitted forms. David said he is disappointed by what he perceives as distortion by the Local Yokel of the discussion concerning the sale of recreational marijuana at a recent Board of Selectmen meeting he had attended.

Asked by David if he has submitted the proposal to town counsel, Mark said no because he has not been instructed to do so. Mark explained that Richard's proposal was during Citizens Speak and not on the agenda. The matter will be on the agenda on October 2. Mark explained that the moratorium is the item currently on the agenda.

Cable Commission

The commissioners and the selectmen discussed the additions to the responsibilities and duties of the access coordinator received from town counsel. The commissioners raised questions about signal quality monitoring and standards. Access Coordinator Richard Squailia said he doesn't agree with the document because it does not include recommendations that he made. Peter Skorput said there seemed to be agreement with the description of the commission's duties but not that of the access coordinator.

Peter said the town has similar commissions that handle invoicing and budget where the chairman runs the show. Peter suggested that the commission and selectmen go with town counsel's documents, see how it goes, and review and revise them in the future. The selectmen voted to rescind the previous documents and approve the new documents.

Oak Street Fence

Bob Thibeault and Curt Wilton discussed plans for a fence on Oak Street. Bob has paid for a surveyor to mark property lines. He and the selectmen discussed how to achieve various objectives, that is, no road narrowing, maintaining the 25-foot road right-of-passage, no fencing in front of another fence, snow removal, and permitting. The new fence was approved.

Marijuana Regulation

Peter described the upcoming Planning Board hearing on bylaws. The board has referred the matter to the Planning Board. The views expressed at the hearing will be referred back to the Board of Selectmen for action. The hearing is about amending the bylaws to require a moratorium, a 14-month pause on permitting medical and recreational marijuana. The purpose of the moratorium is to allow discussion of permanent bylaws.

According to Town Counsel Brian Riley, adopting a ban is a two-step process that can be initiated by the Board of Selectmen. The board can vote on a ban during the moratorium. The moratorium offers time for discussion and does not exclude action on a ban.

Selectman Bernie Fallon advised residents to relax, learn to talk the same language, and consider all elements of the enterprise: medical (already established in Great Barrington and Pittsfield), recreational, and cultivation including small farmers. Don't ban all the elements.

Bernie encouraged residents to sign up for the town e-mail. Richard Squailia also suggested people consult the bulletin board at the entrance to the Town Offices. Curt praised the hearing process and predicted all sides of the issue will be heard including farmers and chronically ill people. Joe Roy reminded everyone that town meeting decides, adding that West Stockbridge is a well-trafficked

Community Garden Farewell

By Dan Lewis

The West Stockbridge Community Garden officially closed this season, after a promising start to our fourth year, due to a combination of factors including the relocation of the garden's creators Dan and Megan Lewis. The project was an ambitious one that never really had the staff to achieve its mission. That being said; everyone involved, most especially Anne Lesser and Thom Lipiczky, deserve a lot of credit for trying to make it happen. We distributed hundreds of pounds of fresh organic produce to families in need for several seasons, a great way to spend days in the sun. We will be working over the next few weeks to restore the site to its original condition, and we will liquidate the remainder of the garden budget into the Santa's Wish List to be equally distributed among the organizations.

November History Quiz Question:

West Stockbridge
Historical Society
Incorporated in 1994

One hundred years ago, the United States entered World War I, also known as the Great War or the "war to end all wars." It was neither. There were over 20 million deaths, including 10 million civilians, and 21 million wounded. The United States had avoided entering the conflict for three years, and public sentiment was largely isolationist, although anti-German sentiment ran high. Newspapers featured atrocities and the injustice of sinking civilian ships by the new weaponry, submarines. Public sentiment finally shifted, and by April 1917, the United States entered the war.

Once war was declared, the country rallied around the effort. How did West Stockbridge respond to the war effort?

When friends, neighbors, or relatives move, downsize, or just clean house, please ask them to think of the West Stockbridge Historical Society before they discard any old books, pictures, postcards, letters, or memorabilia of the Town of West Stockbridge. E-mail info@weststockbridgehistory.org or call 232-4270.

(Find the answer somewhere in this issue!)

town on the way to everywhere, and merchants love traffic. Bob Thibeault asked about Ipswich Pharmaceutical's prediction for gross sales and revenue.

Other Business:

- The selectmen appointed Margie Skaggs and Jackie Moffatt to the Cultural Council.
- Selectman Bernie Fallon and Floor Store owner Joe Roy discussed options for painting and tiling the floors of the public restrooms.
- The selectmen approved disclosures concerning Board of Health agent Earl Moffatt, as required by the Ethics Commission and on file with the town clerk.
- The selectmen discussed a suggestion from Transfer Station attendant Wayne Cooper that a shed be built at the station to protect the "trash to treasure" items from weather.

Open Meeting: October 16, 2017

Curt Wilton chaired the meeting; Peter Skorput was away for Fire Department training. Richard Squailia videotaped the meeting but, when asked, would not say for what or whom he was recording.

Special Town Meeting

The selectmen approved scheduling a special town meeting on November 13, 2017, to act on town zoning bylaw amendments on a medical and recreational marijuana moratorium.

Land Issue

The selectmen discussed attorney Lori Robbins's request to resolve a long-standing issue by placing a warrant before the special town meeting. The purpose of the warrant is to obtain a waiver from the Planning Board to create enough frontage to allow a subdivision on some 87 acres once owned by Mark and Amelia Viola in 1879, located above Maple Street, and described on a 1904 map as "easterly of my barn," and also mentioned in a 1911 town report. Selectman Bernie Fallon commented that one issue is what happens to Orchard Street, owned by the town but not accepted as a road (Mark Webber called it a "paper road").

Shaker Mill Hydro

Mark reported on a letter from the Massachusetts Division of Wildlife and Fisheries regarding an exemption license that Shaker Mill Hydro has resubmitted to the state.

Transfer Station Swap Shop

Bernie reported on plans for a new building at the Transfer Station that would resemble the Talbot Center in Stockbridge and be built by donated labor on a weekend. Building Inspector Brian Duvall supports the idea, Bernie said.

Curt said the Department of Environmental Protection promotes this sort of program, noting it would need approval of the Board of Health and yearly inspections. Curt said instructions should be provided on site and in the Local Yokel.

Curt praised Transfer Station attendant Wayne Cooper for doing a great job. Wayne commented that the town makes money from recycled tin cans, but users should crush water bottles that otherwise take up too much space in the dumpsters.

Selectmen's Report Program

Bernie said the purpose of the Selectmen's Report program is to become more aware of who we are and what is great about West Stockbridge. Part 1 of the three-part program is about improving communications. Bernie proposed a "Selectmen's Corner" feature in the Local Yokel. It was suggested that Bernie be the selectmen's liaison to the newsletter.

Another suggestion was to review the open meeting law in a Board of Selectmen meeting.

Bernie commented that West Stockbridge needs to make a good town video. Doane Perry suggested learning from some of the organizations in town such as the Historical Society and the Artists' Guild.

Retaining Wall Repair

Curt reported that the town is re-starting repair of the Williams River retaining wall by the Shaker Dam Coffeehouse and has filed a notice of intent with the Department of Environmental Protection.

Traffic Issues

Curt reported that Route 41 south of town has been repaved, but there has already been one accident caused by speeding drivers. Residents reported that vehicles fly along Pomeroy Street between Routes 41 and 102, perhaps because GPS systems direct drivers to turn. There has been a comparable issue on turns onto Deer Hill from Lenox Road. The best solution is to call the police.

Citizens Speak

- Roland Dudney reported for the Parks & Recreation Committee that the town is not meeting the playground code because it needs an open plan for the playing field. Consequently, the state won't give the town any grants. Curt asked Mark to put the matter on the agenda for the next Board of Selectmen's meeting.

- Regarding the special town meeting, Gunner Edmundsen asked when the November vote will be held. Mark replied that the Board of Selectmen has called for a special town meeting on November 13. The Planning Board has the language for the moratorium, and it is on the town website. An outright ban will not be on the agenda of the November meeting. Mark commented that a ban could happen because a moratorium does not preclude a ban. A member of the audience asked why there can't be an up or down vote.

- Regarding the Maple Street land issue raised earlier in the meeting, an audience member wondered how the town can rule on something they can't identify, specifically an 1890 description as "easterly of my barn." □

"Photography, for me, is an act of love—and greed. I love what I see and I want to possess it. And I can—click. But, of course, a picture is like a finger pointing at the moon, as the Buddhists say. So I don't have "it." Now I have an image of something that I saw. But I need to make it represent what I saw in a more internal way. So I work with color and textures and shapes and overlays, and if all goes well, I now have my image of what I originally saw and wanted, translated into my experience of it. Really? Not quite, because if I'm really lucky and all goes well, then it is a complete surprise because I never knew I saw it that way until it appeared. To be surprised is the greatest pleasure of all and, actually, has little to do with the initial motivation for taking the original image."

The Berkshire Photo Gathering has published a visually inspirational book that invites the community and visitors to photograph and explore the Berkshires. Fifty-eight photographers, amateur and professional, contributed 332 photos spanning seasons, weather, and locations to capture the beauty and diversity of the area.

The 140-page book is available in hard cover or as a downloadable e-book. For more information, visit <http://www.berkshirephotogathering.com/come-photograph>. The book is also available at the Stockbridge and Lenox libraries in their nonfiction sections as a noncirculating book.

The Berkshire Photo Gathering meets at Stanmeyer Gallery & Shaker Dam Coffeehouse, 2 Main Street, West Stockbridge. The next meeting is set for November 19, 3–5 p.m.

Daddy

I looked to the man in my life to show me the way,
But he was lost to himself.
We wandered in the wilderness on our separate journeys through the world.
Much of my loneliness in my travels
Is because I missed the man who once knew how to push
A little girl on the swing safely.

Your Little Room

At the top of the stairs
I hear the bottleneck
Slide across the metal strings of your guitar,
Your foot tapping on the wood floor.

From the hallway,
I see flies so carefully tied by your big hands –
feathers, hooks –
fixed on the old wine cork.

In your room,
I touch the photo of your trophy bone fish,
Sailboats we chartered,
My surprise birthday party.

I wish you were still here.
Maybe you are.

Capacity Crowd Fills Old Town Hall for Chamber Players Harvest Concert

By Liza Bennett

The sun broke through just a few moments before the West Stockbridge Chamber Players took to the stage on Sunday afternoon, October 15, adding to an already festive atmosphere in the hall's crowded second-floor auditorium. As Robert Salerno, president of the West Stockbridge Historical Society, pointed out in his opening remarks, this was the 17th benefit concert for the Campaign to Restore the Old Town Hall by the Chamber Players, the inspired creation of artistic director clarinetist Catherine Hudgins. Joining Hudgins for this performance were Boston Symphony Orchestra members cellist Oliver Aldort, violist Leah Ferguson, and violinist Sheila Fiekowsky, as well as Boston Ballet Orchestra member violinist Lisa Crockett.

Sheila Fiekowsky introduced the first piece, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's Duo for Violin and Viola in G major, mentioning that Mozart was a wonderful violist and that he featured the instrument in his duo, rather than relegating it to its usual position as second fiddle to the violin. Catherine Hudgins then reminisced about performing a rarely heard piano concerto with the BSO by the next composer, Ferruccio Busoni, that called for a full orchestra, a six-part men's chorus, and hours on stage. In contrast, the piece Hudgins selected for this concert, Busoni's Suite for Clarinet and String Quartet in G minor, performed beautifully by the five musicians, was lush and melodic and over all too soon.

After the intermission, Oliver Aldort remarked that the final offering, Ludwig van Beethoven's Serenade in D major, a relatively early work by the composer, is often characterized as light entertainment, but that parts of it, especially the adagio, possess an intensity and drama that foreshadow Beethoven's mature mastery. The spirited performance bore out Aldort's introduction and provided a rousing finale to a delightful afternoon of music.

After the concert, musicians and audience members gathered downstairs for a reception, lingering to talk, enjoy light refreshments, and relish the unexpected warmth of a late Indian summer afternoon.

SELECTMEN'S CORNER

COMMUNICATION IN WEST STOCKBRIDGE

FROM THE WEST STOCKBRIDGE BOARD OF SELECTMEN

Communication is a fascinating topic. Just because you have spoken doesn't mean there has been communication. It's not communication until the message is received and perceived. If the message is not received, it's just floating in the air. Communicating a message is like passing a football down the field. If the ball hits the target and is held onto, then the communication is complete. If the ball soars over the receiver's head or stops short, then we have incomplete communication.

As a town, if we have a message, we want to be sure it's received and perceived accurately by the appropriate audience. Similarly, as a citizen, your message needs to be received, perceived, and welcomed. This is open communication. So communication is complete only if it's received on the other end. You can talk all day long, but if it's not heard, you are not communicating. People can shout at you. But if there is a soundproof barrier and you don't hear them, it's nothing.

There was an episode of the 1980s TV show Cheers where Rebecca dresses up as a limousine driver to tell her hopeful flame Robin Colcort how much she loves him. With Colcort in the back seat, Rebecca pours her heart out culminating with, "Robin, I love you!" Suddenly she turns her head for his response. She hits her head on the soundproof window to an oblivious Colcort reading the newspaper in the back seat.

To get a message through, we need to

1. Eliminate the barriers.
2. Understand our audience.
3. Speak in a language that is understood.

Here is another way to look at it. People have strengths and biases with communication and perception. Some are visual. Some are auditory. Others are kinesthetic. We should think similarly, as a town, regarding avenues of communication. There are channels or sweet spots through which we can communicate. Some work better than others. It depends on the person. We need to know our town and how each person likes to receive his or her information, such as

- Postings at the Town Offices
- E-mail
- Direct mail
- Facebook
- Conversation on the street
- Your Uncle Skip
- Local access on cable
- The Local Yoke!
- The Berkshire Eagle

Which is the most reliable for you? Some forms work better than others. Not all forms work for every person. As the deliverer of messages, we need to know how people listen. Taking responsibility involves knowing your audience and delivering your message in a form in which they can receive!

Patriots' quarterback Tom Brady is great because he puts the ball where it can be caught. If we want our message to be received, then we will intelligently understand methods of communication and perception. The goal is to send communication through our various channels to reach 100% completion.

What about you? What is your preferred method of communicating? How can we best reach you? We would like to connect the entire town so we can communicate confidently. With a "click of the mouse," we can reach everyone. (Or a "snap of the fingers" because not everyone communicates via e-mail, Internet, or mouse clicking.)

The point here is not to risk having no communication. Also, we don't want to rely on grapevine communication because like the game Telephone, the message can be garbled. We want open communication to be as clear as possible.

We invite you to share your preferred method of communication by filling out and returning the enclosed survey on the next page. Also, please sign up for the town's e-mail list at <http://www.weststockbridge-ma.gov/subscriber>.

From the staff and trustees, a very happy and healthy Thanksgiving Day to all.

PLEASE NOTE: The library will close to observe Veterans Day on Saturday, Nov. 11, and for the Thanksgiving holiday, Thursday, Nov. 23, and Friday, Nov. 24.

Congrats to Amanda Houldsworth for scoring the winning tickets in our Steepletop raffle. Last month's event at Edna St. Vincent Millay's home in Austerlitz celebrated the 125th anniversary of the Jazz Age poet's birth.

Be on the lookout for some new additions to our vestibule entrance. Also, many thanks to the Soule and Balestro families and friends for creating a cozy place to bring a coffee, plug in a laptop, and enjoy the view.

A few of our seasonal attractions (including Hancock Shaker Village) have extended their seasons on weekends and for special events. We will be offering patron passes for as long as they stay open!

Kitchen Countertops

Of the 30 or so kitchen remodels I've done in my time as a design/build general contractor, the vast majority of homeowners have requested granite countertops.

Yet, as a recent Vox.com post noted, "It hasn't always been that way. In 1986 . . . , the New York Times called [granite countertops] a 'down-to-earth' choice. The next year, it was singled out as a cutting-edge material in the Los Angeles Times, but still too expensive for most people. Throughout the '80s, granite was still jockeying with marble for favor among California yuppies."

Then in the mid-1990s, tons (literally) of high-quality figured granite began to be imported from sources other than Italy. Roughly half of the imported granite now comes from Brazil, with India and China following closely behind.

Containerized shipping has made packing and delivery much easier and cheaper. And technological advances have made cutting and finishing the slabs easier as well. Many pieces are now cut on computer-controlled saws and polished or honed with robots.

The housing bubble of the early 2000s made granite countertops de rigueur. Granite's durability and the variety of figures, colors, and finishes continued its popularity even after the 2008 bust, despite its cost of c. $60 to $100 per square foot (sf). It does need to be sealed periodically to avoid stains.

But other options are available besides granite and other natural stones (e.g., marble, soapstone, limestone). Engineered stone is a manufactured material made of ground quartz bound in a resin and polished and finished like natural stone. Brand names are Caesarstone, Cambria, and Silestone. DIYnetwork.com suggests a range of c. $60 to $80/sf.

There's always good old wood, including maple butcher block, which is durable in that scratches can be sanded out, and it can be finished with nontoxic oils or left raw. This is not a good choice around a sink, however, because water will leach out the tannins in the wood and leave black marks ($35 to $200/sf).

Here are some other options:

- Stainless steel: Popular for those who like the industrial look, and the obvious choice of most commercial kitchens because of its durability and ease in cleaning. $75-$150/sf.
- Glass: Thick, durable, heat resistant, and available in a wide variety of colors but sometimes twice as expensive as granite.
- Concrete: Increasingly popular because materials are relatively cheap. But for a good durable countertop with cutouts for undermount sink, built-in drainboards, and so on, the fabrication is labor intensive. These countertops are also typically thicker than the 1¼" stone tops and can be very heavy. A well-sealed, colored, and polished concrete top can be stunning. $75-$150/sf.
- Solid surface: Popular in the 1980s, brands such as Corian and Surell were the second-tier choice for quality countertops after stone. Because the resin surfaces can be seamed almost invisibly and the material can be worked relatively easily, it's a great option, but it can be scratched, so a cutting board is a necessity. $30-$65/sf.
- Laminate (or high-pressure plastic laminate): Not your mother's Formica, although the brand still leads the pack (along with Wilsonart). This is the least expensive option. It's not very heat- or scratch-resistant or well suited to undermount sinks. But it comes in an amazing variety of colors, patterns, and even textures. Edges and backsplashes are also available. $25/sf.

In all cases, the kitchen cabinets are installed first, then the countertop installers come and measure (often with computerized lasers!) or make a full-size template of the tops. They fabricate in the shop and install later, often putting in the kitchen sink at the same time. Ask the installer to polish the edges of your sink cutout. You can use it as a serving tray.

Annual Online Auction:

Bidding Begins on Wednesday, November 22

The auction is the PTA's largest fundraiser. It helps pay for many things that enhance our children's experience at Muddy Brook including teacher grants, classroom supplies, artist residency programs, field trips, and much more. You can view items in our auction at <https://www.biddingforgood.com/mbpta> or on your mobile device at <https://bforg.com/mbpta>. On Wednesday, November 2, the auction will open and bidding will begin. Before the start of the auction, go to that same link and click on the "Register to Bid" button at the top of the page to open an account, a simple and secure process. The auction includes all kinds of items from the Berkshires and beyond—from practical to luxurious (like a spa day at Canyon Ranch) and everything in between. Get a jump start on holiday shopping while keeping it local and supporting our school.

Rewards for Muddy Brook

In October we collected a little more than 2,000 Box Tops! We're off to a great start and hope to keep the momentum going. Clip and save Box Tops coupons from more than 330 participating products including Annie's, Nature Valley, Cheerios, Cascadian Farms, Ziploc, Lysol, and more. Each coupon is worth 10 cents when redeemed. Last year we earned over $1,500 in Box Tops alone! Mail Box Tops to Muddy Brook Regional Elementary School PTA, 318 Monument Valley Road, Great Barrington, MA 01230.

Please join fellow parents and teachers in making this year very special for the students of Muddy Brook. Share your ideas, start something new, get involved, visit muddybrookpta.com, and like us on Facebook!

Thank you for your continued support.

West Stockbridge History Quiz Answer:

The Great War was the first time the United States emerged as a world power committing resources and personnel, not for territorial or commercial gain as in the Spanish-American War, but as a global leader. The war had a major impact on the country and particularly small rural towns like West Stockbridge. In the early 1900s, our town's population was smaller than today, only 1,200 people. Farming was the prime occupation followed by lime and iron quarrying. Global concerns took a back seat to the local economy and school and library politics. Most people had never left the region, let alone the country. In many ways, we were in our own bubble.

Once war was declared, West Stockbridge rose to the call enthusiastically. Fifty-four men and one woman enlisted in the army or navy. Many came from prominent merchant families at the time, such as Bossidy, Troy, Vaber, Fallon, Truesdell, and Baldwin. Some came from farming families such as Shaw and Smith, although farmers were needed at home to support the war effort.

Many who served were second-generation Irish. Five were recent Italian immigrants. The total number was significant given the size of the town. Part of this response could be due to the draft that included all white men between the ages of 18 and 30 (and later 18 and 45), but more than half of those who served volunteered rather than being drafted.

Our local Red Cross got involved. Women regularly met at the Old Town Hall in work sessions where they rolled bandages, made blankets and socks, and raised money for the war effort. It was a town-wide effort.

A more telling measure of the town's response was in the results of the fund drives for the war. The town raised over $67,000 for the war effort, over 1.5 times the annual total taxes raised. Every bond drive and fundraising effort was exceeded, a real measure of support coming from a poor farming/mining community.

The war ended relatively quickly for the United States, and fortunately, none of our citizens were killed in action. We did lose two people at the end to the Spanish influenza epidemic, but that's another story.

West Stockbridge

Join Ann Getsinger on Tuesday, November 13, at No. Six Depot, West Stockbridge, from 12:15 to 1:30 p.m. for an informal discussion over lunch. You will be able to ask her questions.
RSVP: <http://www.signupgenius.com/go/4090544a5a72ca7fa7-meet-or-if-necessary-kcarmean@gmail.com>.

Ann Getsinger is known for her oil paintings and drawings. As the youngest of five in a creative household, her earliest memories are of making artwork. She spent time at the dairy farm next door, at a nearby horse farm, and in the surrounding woods and fields where connections to nature influenced her powerfully. After studying at Paier School of Art in New Haven, CT, and the San Francisco Art Institute, she settled permanently in western Massachusetts where she studied with realist artist Sheldon Fink. The artist's home and studio, since 1988, is in the rural Berkshire town of New Marlborough, Massachusetts, and the midcoast area of Maine.

It Takes a Village!

The sixth annual West Stockbridge Farmers Market season wrapped on October 5 with a truly spectacular Spooktacular! It was a culmination of a season that continues to build on the beginning premise of the market—community. A hard-working volunteer committee pulled it together every week with the essential help of dedicated villagers' work and donations. Neighbors from all segments of the community joined in to make it happen. Sensational vendors and dedicated visitors kept it jumpin'.

Guess Who?
